

IN THE UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT
FOR THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS
HOUSTON DIVISION

IN RE:	§
	§	CHAPTER 11
FREE SPEECH SYSTEMS LLC	§	CASE NO. 22-60043
Debtor	§

CICACK HOLDINGS, LLC'S MOTION TO DISMISS

[Relates to Dkt. 628]

COMES NOW, Cicack Holdings, LLC (“Respondent”) and files this Motion to Dismiss Debtor’s Motion for Turnover of Property (Dkt. No. 628), and in support thereof, Respondent respectfully submits the following:

Motion to Dismiss

Bankruptcy Rule 7001(1) governs this dispute. A request for turnover of property or money from non-debtor third parties must be made by an adversary complaint, not a motion. See In re Hinsley, 149 F.3d 1179 (5th Cir. 1998); In re: Ester M. McCray, 2018 WL 6422719, *2 (W.D. La. Dec. 4, 2018).

In the instant case, Respondent is a non-debtor. Although Debtor’s Motion is not the model of clarity, it is clear the Debtor is alleging that it is entitled to some funds that Respondent is holding pursuant to an agreement the Debtor has with Elevated Solutions Group, LLC (“ESG”). ESG likewise is a non-debtor.

It is important to note that the Debtor does not allege that it has a contract with Respondent. Debtor’s contract is with ESG. ESG is not related to or affiliated with Respondent. In fact, ESG and Respondent are parties to a separate contract concerning the funds at issue, and the Debtor is not even a party to that contract.

Respondent has been placed in the middle of a dispute between ESG and the Debtor. Respondent has communicated to the Debtor on multiple occasions that it would send the funds to whomever the Debtor and ESG jointly instructed. More than once the Debtor has communicated to Respondent that such a joint instruction was forthcoming. However, it never has. Instead, without warning or notice, Debtor filed the procedurally defective Motion for Turnover. Respondent is now given to understand that the Debtor and ESG do not agree on the disposition of the funds at issue.

The funds at issue are not property of the bankruptcy estate. They are funds that are subject to a three-party dispute. To date, ESG has failed to confirm that the funds at issue should be payable to the Debtor. The dispute between ESG and the Debtor has put Respondent in the position of facing a situation where it could be responsible for paying the funds twice if it were to pay the funds over to the Debtor without ESG's consent.

Given that (i) ESG and Respondent are non-debtor third-parties, (ii) the Debtor does not have a contract with Respondent, (iii) ESG has a contract with Respondent concerning the funds at issue, and (iv) ESG and the Debtor cannot agree on the disposition of the funds at issue, a motion for turnover is not the proper procedural mechanism to resolve the dispute. Bankruptcy Rule 7001(1) and Fifth Circuit precedent mandate that this dispute be brought pursuant to an adversary complaint. Accordingly, the Motion for Turnover should be dismissed.
